New approaches to teaching history

Project for students from Poland and Germany

03.-09.02.2017 in Krzyżowa (PL)

The project

The German-Polish relations in present and past are in the focus of this six-day project for students from Germany and Poland. The second main topic is the use of new media in exhibitions, museums and in (international) youth work on the example of the Krzyżowa-based exhibition "Courage and Reconciliation" (<http://odwagaipojednanie.pl>).

You will use your theoretical knowledge to work on contents for the interactive visitor's guide for the exhibition that will be available as a new tool for individual guests and project participants in Krzyżowa.

This connection between theory and practice is an outstanding possibility for you to create new and easy access to scientific topics for non-scientists and to make scientific knowledge accessible to the broad public.

The basis for the practical workshops are inputs, workshops and discussions on the topics:

- German-Polish relations and the process of reconciliation,
- digitalization of museums and exhibitions,
- methods of non-formal learning in the field of historical education
- creation of content for multimedia guides and history apps.

With your participation in the project that includes working on content for the interactive visitor's guide you support the establishment of a new highlight in Krzyżowa. The guide will be accessible for all visitors through QR-Codes in the exhibition and it will be used in the historical education of the foundation.

Methods

- Inputs and discussions
- Workshops
- Working on contents for the interactive visitor's guide
